Forecast For Yorkshire & the Humber
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 13 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Largely fine, dry with sunny spells. Perhaps the odd shower.

Today:
Cold start with sunny spells. Some patchy cloud spreading east though the day, with the odd shower possible. These mainly during the afternoon, and locally heavy, although most parts staying dry. Feeling a touch warmer than recently with light winds. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Any showers soon easing, with cloud breaks developing. This will lead to another cold night, with a widespread frost, along with the odd fog patch potentially forming in prone spots. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Wednesday:
Variable cloud and sunny spells throughout. Most parts staying dry, although a few showers are possible again. Temperatures near normal, but cooler towards the coast, with an onshore breeze. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Little change through this period, with sunny spells and near normal temperatures after cold, and frosty starts. The odd patch of short-lived fog also possible during mornings. Staying largely dry.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.